We are recruiting a Senior Consultant in Perth to manage projects and teams within our growing Flourishing Communities practice. Senior Consultants lead consulting projects, including working closely with clients on the identification of the problem to solve and the implementation of a solution. They are involved from strategy through execution with a disciplined eye on impact throughout engagements.

Initially working closely with Knowledge Society’s Practice Lead, the Senior Consultant (Flourishing Communities) will contribute to the design and leadership of initiatives that reweave the social fabric of local communities and promote community flourishing. These could include: human services innovation labs; co-designing programs with communities, service users, and providers; convening local partnerships and coalitions; codifying practices and tools for reweaving; and delivering capability-building. Over time, it is anticipated that the candidate will be in a position to lead initiatives for Flourishing Communities nationwide using Knowledge Society proprietary methodologies.

In addition to delivering client projects, the candidate will also be part of the Knowledge Society Group management team and have responsibility for the delivery of some backbone projects for the organisation.
Duties and responsibilities

- Design and lead initiatives that reweave the social fabric of local communities and promote community flourishing.
- Understand and implement place-based social and economic renewal approaches.
- Design and manage change processes within communities, organisations and systems.
- Build coalitions of cross-sectoral partners and build their capacity to achieve local change.
- Lead and manage complex, long-term projects ensuring milestones and outcomes are met within budget and positive relationships are maintained with project partners.
- Develop learning experiences which transfer knowledge and skills to build lasting capability within communities and organisations so change becomes sustainable.
- Manage the production of high-quality communications and engagement strategies across a range of media.
- Establish and maintain relationships of trust with existing clients and partners.
- Build collaborative partnerships and networks with clients that will further their ambitions and deepen our relationship.
- Consult with clients to define, describe and prioritise their challenges. Generate strategic and creative responses to client problems and turn these insights into compelling new proposals.
- Stay at the forefront of research, commentary and intellectual inquiry in the field of flourishing communities and other relevant fields, translating these insights for our team and the wider public.
- Advance Knowledge Society’s contribution to thought leadership in education and the domains of your choice.
- Form relationships and increase Knowledge Society’s presence in the human services / community sector. Participate in and help curate occasional events to promote Knowledge Society’s work and extend our impact.
- Identify and cultivate relationships with potential clients and partners, lead and take part in client pitches and negotiate new work and contracts with clients.

Position details

Reporting: This role reports to the Chief Executive Officer and the successful candidate will be responsible for overseeing 2–3 projects concurrently, including managing junior staff.

Location: This role is based in Perth. Travel within WA and interstate may be required.

Duration: Fixed-term contract for one year with the intention to become permanent.

Hours: This is a full-time role, but we are willing to consider flexible working arrangements.

Salary Package: Base salary of $90,000 to $100,000 per year depending on experience plus 9.5% superannuation.
About Knowledge Society

Knowledge Society is a consulting firm that exists to help education and human services organisations improve the lives of Australians. We believe in thoughtful, evidence-informed design of community services and partner with organisations who want to be more effective in their mission and purpose and change lives for the better. Since our founding in 2014, Knowledge Society has worked on solving some of our society’s deepest problems and biggest challenges, including working with education systems to build the capacity to radically improve teaching and learning, helping organisations adapt and grow in the face of technological disruption and supporting community-facing organisations working with vulnerable communities to be intentional and evidence based about their program design and delivery. We are proud of our work and rapid growth in this period, which is a testament to the impact of our approach, a blend of human-centred design, economic reasoning and turning knowledge into practice.

Our company’s founding team is committed to growing the intensity and scale of our work to reach more partners, clients and beneficiaries to do the most important work in Australia in education and human services. We are growing our Flourishing Communities practice to support improvement in the design and delivery of human-centred community and government services.

Knowledge Society’s philosophy is to combine learning from the past with quality empirical research done now in order to promote what works in sustaining human communities and people. We are interdisciplinary by nature. Our work draws on a wide range of domains of knowledge from community development to human-centred design, positive psychology and integrated localism which considers the economic, the social and the psychological dimensions of place.

Knowledge Society brings together a range of disciplines to inform the creation of a new model of community-activated flourishing. We draw on knowledge bases including:

- Economics
- Public administration
- Social services
- Placemaking and community activation
- Technology and innovation
- Philosophy and theology
- Sociology and anthropology
- Art and history.

From research undertaken by the Productivity Commission, most Australian human and social service organisations could lift their productivity and impact significantly. (Shifting the Dial: 5 Year Productivity Review, Productivity Commission, 2017). Knowledge Society’s Knowledge to Practice to Impact (KPI) methodology helps organisations close the productivity gap by adopting better practices, better ways of working, and through a leap forward in solving real human problems in community. We advocate: place based-working, relational ways of working, deeper understanding of core human needs for belonging, mastery, independence and generosity, better service design and better measurement. Our task is to help the human services sector change their practices to increase their impact.
Our people

Knowledge Society is a boutique national practice with big ideas and bold ambition. We value economic reasoning and the capacity to think in systemic terms. We also think highly of service and experience design and the capacity to lead problem-solving teams. If you are looking for a job that will stretch and grow your understanding of the world around you – societies, systems and markets – Knowledge Society may be the place for you.

Knowledge Society looks for exceptional people who want to help us pursue our ambitious mission. A career at Knowledge Society means working in a multidisciplinary team for clients in the government, education, social and philanthropic sectors. You will collaborate with smart and passionate people who yearn to make an impact and are tough judges of it.

We are highly selective about the projects we undertake and we put our whole selves into our work. This means that joining Knowledge Society is not just a professional choice, it is a personal choice. We want people in our team who are independent thinkers with a strong work ethic and unwavering commitment to the betterment of society.

Our consultants work autonomously, but collaboratively.

Senior Consultants work independently, but value input from a variety of sources and collaborate with client partners, other colleagues and experts to create value and build our company’s knowledge base.

Our consultants think deeply.

Do you read widely? Are you a policy wonk? Do you have your finger on the pulse of the global frontier of practice in the areas that interest you? We are looking for people who, like us, are always thinking about different strategies to ameliorate wicked problems.

Our consultants understand client paradigms.

Relationships of trust that sustain the creation of long-term value are based upon being able to understand the world from the client’s perspective and bring new insight to them in their everyday language.

Our consultants have natural leadership qualities.

We are looking for people who have natural leadership attributes who inspire good work from others and foster great individual and teamwork. We look for people who thrive in ambiguity and combine strategic nous with creativity and rigour.
Selection criteria

Personal qualities

- Capacity to enrol others in making a difference
- Compassion and empathy
- Curiosity and intellectual dexterity
- Grit and tenacity
- Capacity to accept ambiguity and complexity
- Honesty, candour and self-expression

Technical capabilities

- Analytical and conceptual skills of a high order
- Experience with community and coalition building methodologies including collective impact and systems change
- Leading groups, facilitation, empowerment and learning design for capability building
- Experience with or exposure to social research and human-centred design methods to create solutions to social problems
- Production management including of specialist resources (such as videographers, graphic designers, writers)
- Experience supporting or delivering services to large organisations and bureaucracies and their accountability protocols
- Understanding of core business and economic concepts including value creation
- Capacity to complete and deliver quality work including written reports, presentation decks and other deliverables

Professional skills and credibility

- Actively builds and maintains effective working relationships with clients and stakeholders
- Can confidently represent the company with stakeholders at all levels
- Inspires confidence in clients and stakeholders
- Well-connected to a rich network of thinkers and practitioners
Application process

For a confidential conversation regarding this role, please contact Jonathon Woofrely, Partner, talenting. on +61 8 6115 0066.

To apply for the position, please email your application to recruitment@talenting.com.au. You must include:

- A cover letter of no more than two pages which outlines how and why you are the right person to join us to design and lead initiatives that reweave the social fabric of local communities and promote community flourishing.
- Your curriculum vitae.
- Details for a minimum of two referees.
- A 3-minute video introducing yourself and sharing why you are interested in the role (confidentially upload via Dropbox here including your name in the file name: https://www.dropbox.com/request/nsjx98yuUYXoCSBu2otG).

Through the selection process, shortlisted candidates will initially be asked to provide samples of previous work and attend interviews. Shortlisted candidates may also be requested to undertake psychometric assessments, undergo criminal history screening and provide information on their work rights in Australia.

Should you have any issues during the application stage, please contact talenting. on +61 8 6115 0066 or recruitment@talenting.com.au

Closing date: 4:30pm, Tuesday 27th August 2019

Note: The role may be filled at any time during the recruitment process, including prior to the closing date.